

To Our Potential Customers,

Semper Diving and Marine is a local company and was established in 2005 as a union signatory company providing a range of construction and inspection services for marine and heavy civil contractors and facility owners. Capabilities of the company include full service commercial diving, for all types of conditions, depths and durations including confined spaces and hazardous materials for construction, environmental, survey and inspection work. Semper's staff includes veteran divers, pile drivers and construction management personnel with in-depth knowledge of all forms of diving, repair, and engineering backgrounds. Semper's owner and president, Peter Merullo, brings over 25 years of marine construction and diving expertise to his venture. His experience includes many years of diving work and management on portions of Boston's Big Dig tunnels, outfall tunnels, diffusers and headworks for the Boston Harbor clean-up project, local transportation tunnels, as well as marine facility restoration. Key members of the staff have worked together for many years on various diving and construction projects in and around New England, and have been brought together to form the nucleus of the company's workforce. We are presently under contract on an as need basis for diving related maintenance and emergency response to the Massachusetts Port Authority. We have performed and repair and consulting engineering for several cities and towns within the Commonwealth including the MWRA tank and conduit inspections, valve replacement, Mass Highway Emergency bridge repairs, dive surveys and marine facility repair. Clients have included Kokosing Construction, Barletta Construction, American Bridge, SPS New England, Revoli Construction, and Methuen Construction.

Sincerely,
